Sneak Peak

3.0 Beta Goes Live This Week

After months of sneak peeks and progress updates, the moment is nearly here.

Argo 3.0 Beta will begin rolling out sometime this week.

This first release is all about the foundation. Faster charts, smoother 2D and 3D views, and the rebuilt engine that will power the next wave of real-time overlays and navigation tools in the weeks ahead.

Take a quick look at what's arriving first.

This is the start, not the finish. And we're excited to share it with you.

Quick Tip

Does Autoroute Run You Through Shallow Water?

Check your buffer.

If your draft is 3 ft and your buffer is 1 ft, Argo may route you through water as shallow as 4 ft.

That's often too close for comfort.

We recommend setting your buffer to at least 2× your draft to reduce risk.

What Do Boaters Think of Argo Premium?

"We are currently using Argo to navigate down the ICW to the Bahamas. I am constantly comparing it, favorably, to Navionics. Argo has a better user interface, more features, and is more readable and customizable.

It's also really nice to be able to see our friends, who don't have AIS, on the map when we get separated. I recommend it to anyone who will listen!"
