What's New This Week

Wind Overlay Released This Week

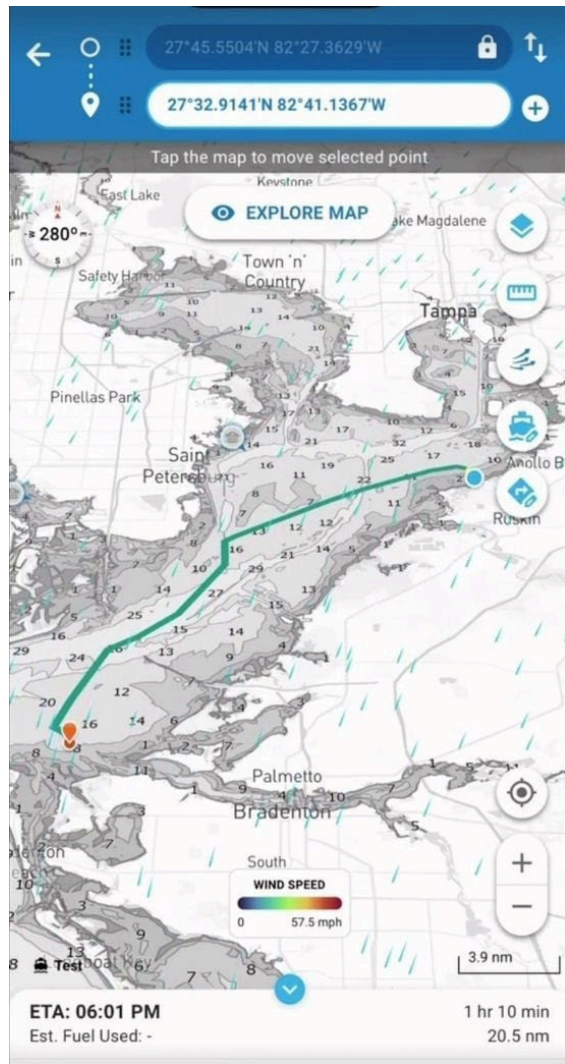

The wind overlay is rolling out this week and ready for you to try.

Toggle it on while planning or routing to see real-time wind conditions. Color-coded intensity makes it easy to quickly understand what you're heading into, with a built-in legend to guide you.

For now, you'll see current wind conditions, with forecast data (up to 72 hours) coming soon across weather layers.

Want to see it in action? Watch the quick demo to learn how to use wind while creating a route.

Fort Lauderdale Boating Guide

Fort Lauderdale is one of Florida's most classic boating spots. It's affectionately called the "Venice of America," named after the canal system that runs through the city. Links to each recommended location in Argo are included, making it easy to plan your stops before you head out.

LOOKOUT Offers Argo Boater's 10% Off

Coming soon, Argo and LOOKOUT are integrating to bring your planned routes directly into LOOKOUT displays. As features roll out, boaters with LOOKOUT installed will be among the first to try them and help shape what comes next.

To celebrate this new integration, LOOKOUT is offering Argo users get 10% off LOOKOUT systems through March 30th.

Quick Tip

From Laminated Cards to In-App Checklists

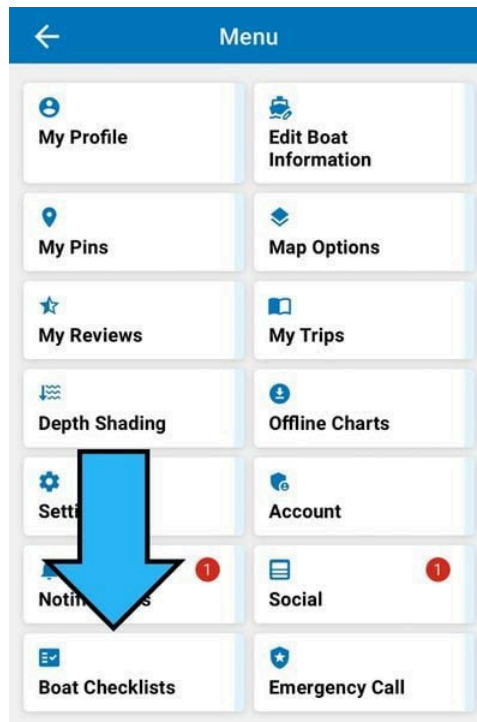

A boater told us they were using laminated checklist cards to avoid missing steps like unplugging shore power.

They asked for customizable digital checklists... and it turns out Argo already does this.

Create your own checklists for every phase of your trip and keep everything in one place.

👉 Find it under Menu → Boat Checklist
